MORATORIUM BATTLE STARTS IN SENATE

Hospital Directors And Doctors Confer On Need For Funds

Must Raise $60,000 For Jameson Memorial Hospital At Once

Institution Must Have Fund In Order To Remain Open

Faced with the alternatives of either providing sufficient money to clear the Jameson Memorial hospital from debt, or close the doors, the board of directors and some thirty members of the Lawrence County Medical society met Friday evening in the hospital and discussed the situation.

Both directors and physicians met on a common ground of understanding insofar as the hospital's place in the community is concerned. Both are agreed that New Castle and Lawrence county need the Jameson Memorial hospital, both agree that it must have sufficient funds with which to operate efficiently and to do this will require close cooperation and intensive work.

Need $60,000

The Jameson Memorial hospital must have $60,000 within a short time if it is to remain open. This deficit is not entirely an operating deficit but represents expenses for necessary equipment and supplies. They had to be purchased if the hospital was to function and once purchased must be paid for.

Not until they were faced with an extremity did the directors ask for outside aid in financing the hospital. They have put in large sums of money themselves, but now feel that the load should be shared by the people of the community. The reason for inviting the physicians in was to seek their counsel and cooperation, to ascertain if they would back the board of directors in an effort to raise the necessary funds and the answer was an unanimous "yes".

A campaign of money raising has been planned to raise the $60,000 and in this the physicians have agreed to lend their support both financial and moral. As professional men they know much better than the layman the need of an efficient

"Highland Heights" again! And this morning's mail brought another approving letter from a resident of that section. Mrs. W. J. Brandt agrees that Highland Heights is the proper name for it—has thought that way, in fact, for about two years. What do some others think?

Christmas card mailing is getting under full holiday swing at the postoffice.

The big roller being used in work on Washington street, is operated by the State Highway Department. Maintenance of eight or ten miles of New Castle streets is now in charge of the State Highway department, as a result of a recent state law, and the repairs are being made under that change. Wilmington avenue has already been repaired and many of the bumps taken out of it. Other streets needing attention that are on state highway routes will also be repaired at this time.

Coming downtown from the west side, when the Christmas lights are burning at night, makes it look like a multicolored canopy is covering the downtown street.

The downtown Christmas decorative scheme is much more elaborate this season than ever in New Castle's history. It is a most appealing picture at the present time. Pa Newc is of the opinion that if auto parking was barred on three or four blocks of Washington street on evenings during the holidays, the effect would be enhanced a great deal. At the present time the effect of the small lighted trees along the curb is blurred a great deal by parked cars.

Up at the corner of Winter avenue and Highland avenue, a large community Christmas tree is being

Last night, the trees along the sidewalk were lighted, and coupled with the arches of lights overhead, presented a spectacle which exemplifies the Christmas spirit in a wonderful manner.

This evening, in particular, the downtown section is expected to be thronged with shoppers and sightseers, eager to get a glimpse of the lighting arrangement which has been prepared by the merchants of

Governor Murray Given Setback By Oklahoma Voters

(International News Service)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 19.—Oklahoma's vigorous and picturesque governor, William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray appeared today to have suffered a defeat at the hands of the citizenry.

With returns from more than half of the state's 3,346 precincts tabulated, four initiative measures, personally sponsored by the governor, seemed doomed to failure. Latest returns from yesterday's special election showed a majority of approximately 50,000 votes already piled up against the proposed laws, which, among other provisions, call for a drastic state income tax and control by the governor of the expenditures of state departments and institutions.

Intensive Hunt In Kansas City For Kidnapers

Every Law Officer In State Of Missouri Redouble Efforts To Get Gang

WITHOUT CLUES, OFFICERS CONTEND

Former Senator Reed Would Like To See Abductors Of Woman Hanged

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 19—"Get the kidnapers. Hang them."

This was the battle cry of every law officer in Kansas City today as they renewed and widened their hunt for the desperate gang which released Mrs. Nell Quinlan Donnelly, wealthy kitchen garmet manufacturess, after holding her and her negro chauffeur in captivity for 34 hours.

Search for the abductors, who had demanded $75,000 ransom on penalty of blinding Mrs. Donnelly with acid and killing her driver, George Blair, was organized in response to a mounting public clamor demanding the extermination of the kidnapping menace. Mrs. Donnelly's abduction was but the latest episode in a long series of similar incidents apparently resulting from the operations of a highly organized gang whose special is the seizure for ransom of Kansas city's wealthy residents.

Death on Gallows

This feeling was crystallized in the words of former Senator James A. Reed, who as a neighbor and counsel for the Donnellys, led the negotiations preceding the wealthy woman's release.

"I would like to crown this kidnaping with a good hanging" the former senator declared.

Kidnaping is a crime punishable by death on the gallows under Missouri law.

But, despite their determination to bring Mrs. Donnelly's captors to justice and to set them up as an example to al' other would-be kidnapers, authorities today were without a clew respecting the identity or the whereabouts of the hunted gang.

Was Kept Blindfolded

Mrs. Donnelly, recuperating in her home from the effects of her ordeal, was unable to supply definite information. She said she was blindfolded throughout the hours of her captivity, except for one fleeting moment when she caught a hasty look at one of her captors. This man she declared, appeared to be a foreigner. From the conversation between the kidnapers, Mrs. Donnelly said, she implied that the gang numbered five or six members and most of them appeared to be from outside the city.

Garden Club Gives Basket Suggestions

In an effort to help those who intend to give Christmas baskets, the Garden club has devised a basket which will feed one family for a week, and at the same time provide a balanced diet which will be nourishing and palatable.

They are cooperating with the mayor's relief committee in their movement to provide a Christmas basket for every needy family in New Castle. The Garden club has already done valuable work during the past year, instigating the garden movement for unemployed, canning thousands of jars of fruit and vgetables, and the making of a great quantity of apple butter.

The basket listed below can be purchased for slightly more than three dollars, wholesale prices, and will keep a family of five persons for one week.

Balanced Meals.

This basket provides balanced meals with the utmost economy of fuel and materials. One quart of milk is included for each day. One large can of evaporated milk, diluted with water being equal to one quart of raw milk and is entirely adequate.

Hundreds In Man Hunt For Slayers Of Rhode Island Trooper

OFFICER'S BODY IS FOUND IN BUSHES

Two 17 Year Old Youths Are Held On Charges Of Killing Trooper

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WICKFORD, R. J., Dec. 19.—Climaxing the biggest manhunt in the history of Rhode Island, Fiphego Brouault, 17, of Pawtucket, was captured in the neighboring town of coventry today and brought here in connection with the slaying of State Trooper Arthur L. Staples, 23, whose body was found sprawled in a clump of bushes in Allentown.

Lescault had been named as the slayer by his companion, Philip Janelle, also 17 of Pawtucket, who was arrested several hours after the shooting and after the pair in an alleged stolen automobile had been halted by Staples.

Capture Take Place

Lescault fell into custody when he attempted to beg an automobile ride. As he was captured, at least five hundred heavily armed police and state troopers aided by two airplanes and police and constables of fifteen nearby cities and towns patrolled every highroad in a wide area along the Rhode Island-Connecticut line.

Young Lescault came out on the New York road with torn clothing haggard face and far from the desperado he had been pictured. He got a ride with a New York motorist near Tiogue Lakes. The car had proceeded only a short distance when mounted state troopers came up and took Lescault from the car.

Janelle it developed is a member of the Rhode Island National Guard, being a private in the 152nd ambulance company.

Plan Wage Cut For Railroaders

Voluntary Cut Of 10 Per Cent Or Involuntary Slash Of 15 Per Cent Decision

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A voluntary 10 per cent wage cut or an involuntary slash of 15 per cent was the ultimatum handed to railway employes today by 100 eastern, western and southern railroad presidents.

Pending negotiations, the railway groups fixed a straight 15 per cent cut for all classes of employes, but it is understood the executives will withdraw this demand if the negotiations result in voluntary acceptance by labor of a 10 per cent cut within the next 30 days.

In giving the union heads one more chance to agree to a settlement, the railroad presidents appointed a committee to deal with the unions, some time in the next month.

The committee consists of nine railroad presidents, the chairman being Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio. The other members are J. C. Pelley and P. E. Denney of the eastern region, C. A. Wickersham, H. D. Pollard and A. C. Needles of the southern region, L. A. Downs, J. E. Gorman and L. W. Baldwin of the western region.

Charles Freeman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freeman of Fairmont avenue, a student at Notre Dame has returned home to spend the Christmas holidays. Freeman played on the Freshman football squad this season.

ULTIMATUM IS SENT TO CHINA

Japan Will Give Chinese One Week To Withdraw Forces From Disputed Area

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Dec. 19.—The contemplated Japanese military attack upon the Chinese forces in the Chinchow area will begin immediately, it was learned authoratively by International News Service today, unless the Chinese forces retire forthwith.

The Tokyo war office has ordered General Shigeru Honjo to dispatch a messenger to Chinchow with an ultimatum to the Chinese commander there demanding withdrawal of his troops south of the great wall within one week.

To Send Ultimatum

Simultaneously the Japanese minister at Peiping is to send a similar ultimatum to Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, in charge of Chinese operations throughout Southern Manchuria.

The week's time given the Chinese to evacuate is to begin with arrival of the messenger at Chinchow, probably on Monday.

It was understood a reply to both ultimatums would be demanded within 24 hours. A deliberate refusal to comply probably would mean an immediate clash.

Summons Conference

It was reported Chiang Hsueh-Liang had been informally told of the move and had taken immediate steps. It was understood he was returning to Nanking, capital of the new government, immediately.

The Chinese legation here said Chiang had summoned an immediate conference of the Nanking central advisory committee, of which he is a leading member.

WIFE OF STATE OFFICIAL DIES IN AUTO WRECK

Mrs. Rose W. Campbell, Killed Almost Instantly As Auto Crashes Into Truck

HARRISBURG, Dec. 19.— State highway patrolmen today were investigating an automobile crash in which Mrs. Rose W. Campbell, wife of Dr. John Moore Campbell, chief of the Bureau of Communicable diseases, State Health Department, met almost instant death on the highway near Liverpool.

Dr. Campbell, who was driving a state-owned car toward Sunbury, escaped serious injury. His wife was dead when he lifted her from the wreckage.

Two trucks parked on opposite sides of the highway were said to have figured in the accident. The lights of the truck on the left side blinded Dr. Campbell momentarily and his machine sideswiped the vehicle on the left.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—"Peaches" Browning, youthful wife of Edward West "Daddy" Browning, has been denied a divorce in a petition handed down by Supreme Court Judge John L. Walsh.

Browning married "Peaches" Heenan, a former Columbus, Ohio, girl when she was fifteen years old in April of 1926. They were separated within a year, and considerable litigation has followed.

SENATE IS CONSIDERING MORATORIUM MEASURE

House Passes Resolution At Session Last Night By 317-100 Vote

EFFORT TO SPEED SENATE ACTION

Resolution May Be Placed Before Senate For Discussion Today

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Republican leaders of the senate today opened a drive to jam the Hoover one-year moratorium resolution through to final passage before the Christmas recess next Tuesday in the face of stubborn opposition.

Even before the resolution, approved by the house last night by a vote of 317 to 100, was formally reported to the senate, machinery was set in motion to force the issue.

The finance committee, suspending its international banking investigation at the request of Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman, took up the resolution in the hope of placing it before the senate during the day.

May Be Delayed

Democratic leaders interposed no object to the demand of President Hoover for speedy action on the year's suspension of inter-government debts, but were doubtful if it would be acted upon before January.

A militant trio—Senators Johnson (R) of California, Norris (R) of Nebraska and McKellar (D) of Tennessee—were ready to block the administration's move with charges of "gag rule."

"We are going to try to get the moratorium resolution through before Christmas," said Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader.

"I favor passage as soon as possible but can't say we'll get action before Christmas," said Senator Harrison of Mississippi, minority leader on the finance committee.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills in conferences with Senators carried the urgent request of Mr. Hoover for speedy disposal.

House Passes Measure

Passage was accomplished in the house at 10 o'clock last night, after a continuous session from noon and a threat by Rep. Rainey of Illinois, majority leader to keep the house in session all night if necessary.

As passed the resolution contains a proviso putting the congress flatly on record against any revision or cancellation.

The proviso, though opposed by nine Republican members in the ways and means committee, was not attacked on the floor.

During the debate the house cheered a declaration by Rep. Crisp that it is serving notice upon the world that the United States does not intend to revise the generous American war debt settlements.

Johnson Objects

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The first move by the administration to secure Senate ratification of the Hoover one year war debt moratorium was blocked this afternoon by Senator Hiram W. Johnson (R) of California, leader of the opposition.

Police Have No Trace Of Slayers Of Diamond

(International News Service)

ALBANY, Dec. 19.—All hope was abandoned by police today of ever capturing the two youthful gangsters who shot Jack (Legs) Diamond to death yesterday as he lay in a drunken stupor sprawled across his bed in a dingy rooming house.

Officially, the authorities bent every effort to bring Diamond's slayers to justice, but privately they said they would not lose any sleep if the killers never were caught.

Police were convinced the same mob who twice before had attempted to put Diamond on the spot and failed were responsible for "rubbing out" the racketeering beer baron a half hour after he left the arms of his red haired show girl sweetheart, Marion (Kiki) Roberts, in another rooming house on the opposite side of the city.

District Attorney John A. Delaney summed up the situation today when he said:

Frenchman Held For Slaying Of Young American

Albert Davin, Insurance Agent Confesses Murder To Parisian Police

(International News Service)

PARIS, Dec. 19—With arrest and confession of Albert Davin, Parisian insurance agent, French police announced today they had solved the mysterious murder of Richard Wall, young New Yorker whose nude body was believed thrown in the Seine 40 miles from Paris yesterday. The body has not been found.

Davin, police declared, confessed he had committed the murder for robbery after cultivating Wall's acquaintance in a Boulevard cafe.

Police followed the trail of blood and scattered clothing leading from the spot where the murder was committed and had Davin in custody within twenty four hours.

Confession Made

Davin told police that soon after he had struck up an acquaintance with Wall, the American showed him a check for $300 he had in his possesion. The two became friendly and then confidential. Davin declared that late Wednesday night Wall showed him an automobile which he charged the American had stolen earlier in the day.

Davin was quoted by police as saying he and Wall drove out of the city and at a wooded spot near Paris he, Davin, drew a gun and shot the American three times, then rifled his pockets.

Davin's story, police declared, fitted in with evidence they had obtained during the intensive manhunt which followed discovery of the murder. The car was found abandoned in the spot Davin had signified, while earlier in the search scattered remnants of Wall's blood-soaked clothing were found along the route of the murder ride.

Lighted Christmas trees have been put in place at the canopies at The Castleton. They make quite a telling Christmas picture.

Indications are that there will be a record shopping crowd downtown tonight.

Hundreds of baskets are being packed around the city for distribution to needy. There certainly will be no reason for anybody being without an abundance of foodstuffs this Christmas season, considering the number of agencies that are working on the project.

A veritable fairyland. That was Pa Newc's impression of the downtown business section which he visited last night, when the bright colored lights that arched East Washing street and outlined small Christmas trees in front of business places showed their brilliance.

One of the craziest remarks Pa Newc has heard lately was that made by a man on Washington street yesterday when employes of the state highway department were at work repairing the street. The gentleman had a cigar in his mouth and asked one of the workmen if he might light it on the acetylene lamp.

menus which this basket will provide will be published. These menus have been approved by a hospital dietician.

The amount necessary for one week's supply is listed as follows:

Rice, one pound; rolled oats, one package; cornmeal, two pounds; milk, eight large cans. This will provide seven breakfasts for a family of five.

Beans, six pounds; potatoes, one peck; cabbage, three pounds; macaroni, three pounds; apples, one peck; turnips, half peck; corn, one can; sugar, two pounds; tomatoes, two pints; salt pork, two pounds; onions, one and one-half pounds; vinegar, one pint. This will provide seven dinners and seven suppers.

To the above should be added: flour, 24½ pounds; yeast, one package; soap, one cake each of laundry and toilet; salt, one bag on alternate weeks; lard, one pound.

This will provide a basket which will cost $3.30 at wholesale prices, or around $3.75 retail prices.

The food contained in a basket such as this is wholesome and nourishing. There is no fancy food contained in it, and those who are giving Christmas baskets should give baskets of this type, instead of fancy things, which will contain but enough for one day's supply. Just such a basket as this will be given by the mayor's relief committee next week.

Directions for providing meals from the above supply of foods will be published Monday.

Those who want to give baskets should communicate with the mayor's committee clearing house, the Associated Charities. If they have people they are going to furnish baskets to, let the Associated Charities know the name. The information will be kept strictly confidential. Those who do not have people in mind and want to give baskets can obtain a list of names from the mayor's committee, or they can turn names in to the mayor's committee if they feel that the people are deserving, and the committee will see that they are taken care of, and the information will be kept secret.

the city under the auspices of the Better Business Bureau.

Should Bar Parking.

There is only one marring feature, and that is the number of parked automobiles along either side of Washington street. The effect of the display is considerably impaired by the machines parked along the curb, which might be eliminated during the early hours of the evening, in order that those on Washington street may get the full benefit of the display.

If parking were prohibited between the hours of seven and ten o'clock, between the Diamond and the East Washington street bridge, it would give sightseers an "eyefull" of glory they would long remember.

There is a parking plot at the foot of Mercer street, provided especially for shoppers by the city, and there is plenty of other space where machines may be parked, and it is believed that the suggestion could be worked out in an admirable manner.

City Not Paying Cost

In some sources there is some misunderstanding as to the lighting program. The city of New Castle is not paying for the lighting, or the decorations. The merchants and the Pennsylvania Power Company are paying the expense.

The Pennsylvania Power Company is furnishing all of the current without charge, and in addition paying some of the installation expense. The merchants are paying the remaining cost of the decorations. It is not a city project, but one of the merchants.

There are still some trees to be erected and decorated, but the supply of bulbs ran out late yesterday, and as soon as the additional supply arrives, the remainder of the trees will be erected and lighted, it is announced.

Representative Blanton (D) of Texas objected. Then Representative Crisp (D) of Georgia appealed to the sportsmanship of members of the House and asked them to uphold their dignity.

Republican Leader Snell of New York hurried to Free and asked him to withdraw. He did so, but repeated his charges against McFadden outside the chamber.

threat to enter a candidate against him. They attacked his motives.

McFadden stood his ground, inviting congressional investigation of his statements and demanding an investigation of international bankers.

One member of the Pennsylvania delegation, Representative Golder, came to his defense by declaring that "there is not a member of our delegation who has the affection or respect of his colleagues to a greater extent than Mr. McFadden."

Near Riotous Scene

A riotous scene was narrowly averted in the House last night when Representative Free (R) of California, close friend of President Hoover, rose to attack McFadden.

"Never before in my experience in Congress have I heard a member question the integrity of the President of the United States and accuse him of selling out his country," he said.

"I shall now read from a court decision," he continued, and Representative Kvale (F-L) of Minnesota objected because he was not speaking to the bill under consideration.

Jap Troops Are Moving West In Manchuria

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MUKDEN, Dec. 19.—The Japanese invasion west into Manchuria began in earnest today as Colonel Mori, acting on orders from Tokyo, occupied the towns of Chantu and Pamiencheng, and then continued on westward.

The towns were taken without opposition from the Chinese forces which had controlled them. The drive toward Chinchow, ostensibly to suppress Chinese "bandits," assumed major proportions as the Japanese troops indicated they intended to take control of the whole Chinchow area.

Gen. Honjo, Japanese commander in Manchuria, told International News Service this afternoon, however, that he has no present intention of attacking Chinchow."

"I am going to clean out bandits north of Chinchow where they are making life miserable for the inhabitants," he said. "Of course I shall attack Chinchow if that becomes necessary. That will depend upon the action of the bandits and their relation to regular Chinese troops."

Payday Arrives For 25,000 Employes In City Of Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—Today was pay day for some 25,000 Philadelphia city employes after a four-day wait. They will receive their wages in cash instead of the proposed pay warrants carrying the city's promise to redeem them at some future date.

Steps necessary to replenish the empty city treasury so that the workers might be paid were taken yesterday by city council when $2,000,000 was paid from the tax department to the sinking fund commission, then turned into the treasury to meet the payroll.

No steps have been completed as yet, however, for replenishing the treasury sufficienty to meet the December 21st payroll.

Although all city workers will not be enabled to collect their pay today they will all have obtained their money by next Tuesday. The delay is caused by the inability of the city's clerical staff to turn out the necessary warrants before that time.

Guests for the affair, which promises to surpass any New Year's event that Agenda has held in the past, are expected from many cities and towns in Western and Northwestern Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Happy Hour Club Party.

Unusually entertaining was the Christmas party given by members of the Happy Hour club associates on Friday evening in the home of Mrs. John Wettich on Crawford avenue. Gifts were exchanged, immediately upon the arrival of everyone, and following a contest in dominoes was enjoyed. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Arthur Snyder and Mrs. Nannie Thompson at the close of the feature.

Later, the guests were ushered into the dining room where they were directed to select their stocking which hung on the mantlepiece, containing nuts, candies, fruit, etc., and then precede to their places at the beautifully appointed table. A delicious menu was then served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ada Nelson.

On Friday, January 8 Mrs. Roy Leslie of Moore avenue will entertain the club in her home.

THE C. C. GREENS ENTERTAIN FRIDAY

A delightful event of last evening occurred at the Senior High school when Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Green entertained principals and their wives at a 6:30 o'clock dinner in the Domestic Art Room of that building, with Mrs. Viola Healey, instructress, and a group of her girls serving. A delectable menu was served at tables prettily appointed in the season's tones, covers marked for twenty-seven.

Following, the guests went to the Green residence on Sheridan avenue where they spent the balance of the evening. Contests in cards and other games whiled away the hours until time to depart.

KENSINGTON NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. W. C. Patterson of Cedar street was hostess Friday evening to members of the Worthwhile kensington, when she entertained at a chicken dinner. Covers marked for ten guests, at a table nicely arranged in the season's tones where a tasty menu was served at 6:30 o'clock. Miniature Christmas trees, tall red tapers and other ornaments made the table most attractive.

Later, games and contests were enjoyed, and the exchange of packages occurred during this period.

The evening was concluded with a business session when election of officers took place, with the following results: Mrs. Luther Moore, president; Mrs. J. L. McConahy, secretary; Mrs. W. S. Caskey, treasurer. Other matters of interest were also given attention.

On Friday, January 15 the club will be received at the home of Mrs. W. E. Burrows, Morton street.

Carl Social Tonight

This evening, Mrs. Homer Pence of 20 North Beaver street will entertain at a card party in her home, play beginning at 8:45 o'clock.

Does a Guarantee Mean Anything?

The term "Guaranteed" has a very wide application. It frequently becomes so twisted in a business transaction that it means nothing to the purchaser.

The value of the term "Guaranteed" is based upon the policies of the organization with which one is dealing—their attitude toward fairness and justice. If a firm adheres to the practice of fairness and justice to every patron, then a "Guarantee" has a value.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

CHRISTMAS greetings are reaching their destination, are being opened and read. The answer to all this, or rather this is the answer to the post office department's appeal to "speed up" the Christmas mail, post early and similar exhortation to avoid coagulation of the postal service.

It is not difficult to find persons who dislike early mailing or at least early reception of messages intended for Christmas Day or its twilight zone. To such persons the whole business seems premature and mechanical as so much of the observance of the holidays has unfortunately become.

But both a practical and sentimental reason stand on the other side of the issue. If everybody waited until the last day or two preceding Christmas to mail their cards, it would be Washington's birthday before the last mail would be delivered. The American people have gone into the exchange of Christmas cards do extensively that even under present conditions the postal service is about swamped.

And there is this additional comfort for persons who prefer to receive their greetings nearer the holiday that if the Christmas spirit is the delightful thing most persons admit it is then spreading it over as much of the calendar as possible ought to be all the more delightful. If the early mailing of cards of greeting tap the reservoir of goodwill sooner than formerly, then the world is better for it.

An entire year of the ebullitions of the Christmas spirit might pall after the first month or two, but it is vigorous enough to endure a fortnight and if within that period, the world is a bit merrier, generous and considerate by the early mailing of Christmas cards, there really cannot be much complaint against the practice.

CONGRESSIONAL SENIORITY AND THE IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

Now that the National House of Representatives is in control of the Democratic party the important committee on Immigration will have a new chairman. If the rule of seniority prevails, as it usually does, the chairmanship will go to Mr. Dickstein, of New York. The result will be that this committee will have a chairman whose well known views represent neither the country at large nor the Democratic party, nor anything but a very small fragment of any party, whether among members of this committee or among the representatives at large. Mr. Dickstein has been against restriction of immigration first, last and always. He appeared prominently at a recent meeting which, even in the face of present conditions, actually denounced restriction of immigration.

The rule of seniority may be as incapable of change as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and Tammany is not given to concessions where chairmanships are concerned. But this result of seniority rule in a body that is expected to represent the nation would be absurd if it did not involve most serious possibilities. There are on that committee men who know that some of the most vital interests of their people are involved in the proper handling of the immigration question. Will these men let themselves be put at the mercy of a man whose views are those of a waning minority in a limited district, one who does not and cannot represent the interests of the country.

BOORS ALL

A reasoning being can usually find answers to his own questions, but there is one that stumps all. Why is it that motorists forget all etiquette and the rudiments of courtesy when they get behind a steering wheel?

It is not polite to swear at the dining table if the butter isn't passed the instant it is asked for. And almost everybody employs the polite "Paron me" in pedestrian jams and crowded elevator. But get the same people in the driver's seat and there is loud honking and a cussword or two if the car ahead stops too suddenly or fails to start soon enough.

Seldom does one meet a driver on the open highway who will give an inch to the other fellow and surrender his right-of-way to convenience other cars. It is everybody for himself and curses upon the other fellow even though his faults and transgressions are your own.

Motorists spurt around corners without regard for the safety and hearts of others; cars cross and halt suddenly in front of others without giving warning, and, instead of taking accidents calmly and assuming one's fair share of the blame, drivers and passengers strive to see which can out-yell the other and out-cuss him. Why is politeness left behind or forgotten by most drivers the minute they step into their car?

Once an individual expert in the art of cussing was said to "swear like a trooper." "He swears like a traffic policeman" or "he swears like a motorist in a traffic jam" are similes in common usage. Did the motorist get his education from the traffic officer, or the traffic officer get his from the motorist?

Still, a world inherited by the meek would be a setup for a Mr. Mussolini.

Cheer up. Six months from now the primary campaigns will be on in full blast.

All Of Us

Children of Procrustes All of Us Are Shaping Our Friends

By MARSHALL MASLIN

We are all children of Procrustes—a terrible fellow who lived in the myths of the ancient Greeks—and who was killed by the young hero, Theseus, but who rose, somehow, from the slaughter and is living still.

He had quaint ideas of conduct, that giant Procrustes. He kept open house for all who came his way. If a weary traveler came to his door, Procrustes led him in with fair words and compliments and laid a rich feast before him and made pleasing compliments with him and then led him to a chamber where he might sleep his fatigue away.

And there, in the chamber, was the catch in Procrustes' hospitality. . . . For the giant owned an iron bedstead, and if you lived in his house you had to fit it. If you were too short for Procrustes he lashed you to his iron bed and stretched you painfully until you fitted it . . . If you were too long for the bed, he measured you against it and lopped off your legs. And if you didn't like his crude but attentive hospitality, you were a strange fellow, indeed.

So, you can't deny that you know Procrustes. You know him very well, indeed. Because some of that fellow's insistent ways are in everybody. In you. In me. . . . Certainly, in me.

I remember with shame the times I've had a friend and lost him because I would not let him be. Because I set myself up as his adviser and started too many sentences with "If I were you—"

Procrustes is my ancestor. He fathered many children before the heroic Theseus came along, and that itch to change people is the dominant family tree. It's in me and it's in you—but, of course, you and I agree that there's far more of it in those other fellows who are always going out of their way to try to to change US.

They pester us, they nag us, they flatter us, they use all sorts of trick and devices to squeeze us and stretch us and make us over. They are the worst of all.

They are the most hateful Sons of Procrustes—those energetic, interfering, busy-body fellows who simply can't let us alone!

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Company A of the 76th regiment was recruited in Lawrence county and Company G of the same regiment was recruited in Lawrence and Westmoreland counties. The regiment was organized for three years with D. H. Wallace of New Castle as lieutenant-colonel. November 18, 1861, it received its colors from the governor at Camp Cameron, Harrisburg, and the following day proceeded to Fortress Monroe. On the 8th of December, 1861, the regiment arrived at Hilton Head, S. C., where it was equipped and assigned to General Wright's brigade. A part of the regiment participated in the taking of Fort Pulaski at the mouth of the Savannah river, Company A and Company F being left at Hilton Head. June 16, 1862, the regiment participated in an attack on the city of Charleston and was repulsed. October 22, 1862, it formed a part of an expedition to sever communications between Charleston and Savannah, by destroying bridges across the Pocotaligo and in this undertaking the 76th regiment lost 75 officers and men in killed and wounded. July 10, 1863, an attack was made on Fort Wagner and on the following day the 76th participated in a charge on the fort in the face of a withering fire. They were repulsed with terrible losses. The killed and wounded from the regiment alone numbered 187, of whom 53 were killed. Another assault was made on July 18, in which the regiment lost 17 killed and wounded. In May, 1864, the Tenth corps was attached to the Army of the James in Virginia and early in that month they forced the Confederates back from Weldon railroad to Drury's Bluff and in this action the 76th lost 65 in killed and wounded. They sustained a heavy loss in the three days' battle at Cold Harbor. June 23, 1864, they proceeded to Petersburg, where they performed picket duty on the front line of works. They were later in engagements at Chapin's farm and Hather's Run and on January 6, 1865, joined an expedition against Fort Fisher in North Carolina, which surrendered January 15. They next took Wilmington and Raleigh, being detached at the latter place for provost guard duty. They were mustered out at Raleigh July 18, 1865, and paid off at Harrisburg, Pa., on July 23, when they disbanded.

HERE'S A FUNNY ONE

The life of a college freshman is not a bed of roses. Especially the first few days, before he gets his bearings, or before he gets to know his classmates well enough to distinguish them from his hereditary enemy, the sophomore, the days of the freshman are made up of one embarrassing moment after another. In one of the eastern colleges, where chapel services are held each morning, the classes gather in the lower hall just after the services, sing their college songs, after which each class roars its crazy class yell. On the opening day, the freshmen were each given a slip on which was printed a song entitled "A Japanese Hymn". The instructions were that the freshmen were to sing the song to the tune of "My Country 'tis of Thee" immediately after the sophomores finished their class yell. Obediently the freshmen awaited the finish of the sophomore yell, then began,

Owata nass Ayam,
Owata foo Li yam,
Owata simp—

Which was as far as they got when the roar of the upper classmen drowned their voices.

(For the benefit of such readers who do not understand the Japanese language, it is suggested that they sing the symn aloud in the presence and hearing of their friends.)

THE MAN WHO DIRECTS A RAILROAD DOESN'T LOOK FOR DUST ON CHAIR ROUNDS

Many men, uncommonly successful as foremen, fail as chief executives because they are jealous of their authority.

They are not content to instruct their captains and leave to these lesser dignitaries the task of dealing with privates. They are afraid the captains will feel too important or actually assume authority to use their own discretion.

They pretend that their constant supervision of detail and their frequent revision of the orders given by subordinates are prompted by the conviction that they alone are competent to manage things well, but the truth is they are unwilling to share their glory.

They disrupt the organization and exhaust themselves within a year. And when they are removed to sanitariums or grave yards, the popular assumption is that the weight of great responsibilities broke them. The thing that broke them, however, was meddling—the frenzied activity made necessary by their unwillingness to delegate authority.

They could not assume the big boss attitude because they had little boss minds. They tried to do the work of ten little bosses because they wanted everybody to understand who was big boss.

That same small calibre jealousy is the quality that makes many men unhappy and unbearable as husbands.

An editor of one of the great monthly magazines said a few years ago: "I wish my wife would take full responsibility for the home. I'd like to hand her a check for running expenses and then dismiss the whole business from my mind and let her run the place to suit herself."

That is the attitude of an experienced and successful executive. He wishes to save his energies for problems of his own calibre.

But a smaller man is afraid his wife and his friends will forget that he is boss. Decisions made without his approval hurt his vanity. If his wife hangs a picture without consulting him, the act seems equivalent to an assertion that he isn't essential. It smacks of insubordination.

Because his smallness requires frequent demonstrations of his authority, he snoops in the kitchen, demands an explanation of grocery bills, meddles in all the minutiae of household affairs.

Perhaps he can't help it, for a man is no larger than the terms he thinks in, and the thickness of a potato peeling may seem vital to a man with that kind of mind.

In any case he is a pest, and men of his type should do the house-work and let their wives get out and find larger jobs.

A Woman Always Considers It Her Right to Lie About Her Age, What Her Husband Makes and What Things Cost.

AND NOW I'LL TELL ONE

Men have ever decried woman's ability to keep a secret and women have ever declared that they could keep secrets as well as most men. Particularly in the matter of their ages, have women always been tight-lipped, to which any census enumerator will testify. But occasionally a clever man (and there are clever men) can even break into the secret of a woman's age, as did a smart census-taker of the male sex. The woman whom he was questioning was no longer a flapper, though she used every artifice to retain the appearance of one, but fooling nobody except herself. She answered all questions as to her sex, the color of her skin, her domestic affiliations, etc., but at the question of her age, she balked. "I have not told my age to anyone since I was 22," she boasted, "and I shall continue to keep my age a secret for the rest of my life." The census man laughed. "Shucks," he said, "women don't know how to keep a secret. Some day you'll come right out with it." The woman bristled at this mere man's disparagement of her sex. "Is that so?" she snapped. "Well, let me tell you, Mister, that I've kept this secret for 20 years so I guess I ought to know how to keep one!"

An Ohio lady confessed that she shot and killed her husband after he had shot her four times. She was evidently afraid he might shoot her in a vital spot sime time. She ought to have a nice wrist watch or pin, which would be more serviceable than a medal and would need no explaining.

Vachel Lindsay Gave Poetry Unique Setting, Say Critics

Death Of American Writer Produces Numerous Tributes To His Position As One Who Sang Of The Common People Of His Day

That the American poet, Vachel Lindsay, made an impression on his generation before his death is certain. How lasting his reputation will be, remains for time to tell, according to editorial comment.

"In the city of Springfield, Illinois, where' 'Abraham Lincoln walked at midnight,' Vachel Lindsay was born and there he died," notes the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, describing him as "the last of the troubadours, a wandering minstrel who in his early days tramped the highways and byways of the South and West, exchanging verses for his bread and lodging." As to the character of the man and his poetry The Chronicle comments: "He was not born to lead a cloistered life of luxury provided by some wealthy and obsequious patron, he sought instead the plaudits of the masses and obtained them. Reading his poetry, you did not see sheltered homes of culture beneath New England elms; you saw, instead, the round-up of milling steers on the last fringe of America's far frontier. And you heard the clang of hammers and the noise of steel girders sliding into place and the roar of the mill which is America. Vachel Lindsay sang of the common man and what he has accomplished in a nation which was founded for the common man."

Recording that Lindsay "more than most poets, conceived of his poems as being read aloud," and holding that one needs to hear them read aloud to appreciate them fully," while those who heard the author read them were most appreciative of all," the BLOOMINGTON PANTAGRAPH pays the tribute: "This Illincis troubadour will be remembered by many to whom he has made poetry a living art. He will be remembered, too, for pointing out the color, the music, the thrill, of life on the midwest prairies—a life that many easterners still think of as drab. He did much to take poetry off a dusty pedestal and give it a new place by the fireside."

That his "best work was strikingly individual, definitely original," is the estimate of the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, as it recalls that "twenty years have passed since he wrote that oddly titled, quaintly and beautifully printed book in paper covers, 'Rhymes to be Traded for Bread'. As a name for a book it was no jest. Lindsay walked a thousand miles west, sleeping where night found him, trading his little book and giving impromptu programs of readings, in exchange for food and lodging," his purpose being "to bring an art awakening to every town and crossroads." As the ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC pictures him: "For years he was a troubadour, like one of the free singers of the medieval times, the roadside his kingdom, the stars his friends, the poor folk of the fields and cottages the beneficiaries of his Muse. He found a richness of life that most of us miss." In its tribute to his memory The Register-Republic quotes the first verse of his poem, "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight"—

"It is portentous, and a thing of state
That here at midnight, in our little town
A mourning figure walks, and will not rest,
Near the old court house pacing up and down."

That this poem and "The Chinese Nightingale" will not be overlooked by lovers of poetry in succeeding generations, is the belief of the DALLAS JOURNAL, with the conclusion: "Vachel Lindsay served poetry in a time that had little ear for poetry, by bringing poetry to the people and making them listen and like it. He essayed the role of troubadour and with an effectiveness that quickened popular interest in modern verse. As such he served well the art which he championed and the cause of contemporary literature."

It is the opinion of the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR that "Lindsay's poems are not deep and he was not particularly interested in beauty. Rather he cared more for originality, something fierce and explosive, that startled by its violation of all the conventions of poetry." But as the ALLENTOWN MORNING CALL sees his work, "Lindsay struck some new notes in American poesy, and was unique not alone as a character, but also as a creative poet." The call suggests that perhaps Americans will remember best and longest the prize poem of 1913, entitled 'General William Booth Enters Heaven,' a thrilling picture of the Salvation Army and its militant activities."

"It should interest some of the younger literary men who have an unhealthy scorn for the materials and methods of this country, and who have a polite and enervating nostalgia for Europe, that Vachel Lindsay was as American as a Chautauqua meeting or as William Jennings Bryan," notes the PROVIDENCE EVENING BULLETIN, which believes "there was in him a great feeling for beauty and a great rhapsodical strength. He translated the method of camp meeting into his works, by the use of playing in crescendo upon the emotions, urging the readers to rise and proclaim the moving spirit within them. He has had a widespread influence upon some of the newer poets and his works are a splendid contribution to the growing articulateness of the United States."

Speaking of honors done him the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, noting that "he invariably fascinated his audience, whether of high or of low degree," records that "he had the honor of being the first American poet to give a recital of his own poems at Oxford," and holds the further unique distinction of being "the only poet whose voice has been recorded to any extent, if at all," with "some 36 phonograph records of it in the possession of the Columbia University Library, including many of his more famous poems."

BE THANKFUL

If you have a fair job and remuneration is steady, be thankful.

Perhaps you do have to work harder to earn it these days.

Some of the work which used to be done by others may have been added to your job, but what of it?

In some instances it may be true that men are imposed upon in the name of present depression, and compelled to do more than their share.

Notwithstanding, you should still consider yourself lucky to have work.

Thousands of men more capable than you would be pleased to accept your place and would consider themselves lucky to have such a job.

It is true that every man should be provided with the opportunity to work for a living and they should not be required to do more than a fair amount of work in order to earn it.

Bue exceptional conditions have made this impossible.

Output must be curtailed, if it can't be sold, with decrease in labor required, hence the difficulty in finding employment.

In times like this the man who gets work of any kind should rejoice.

He should put forth his best efforts to be worthy of the place, and do it happily.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE UNKNOWN

Look wisely on the world out there
Be not too quick to cry "unfair!"
Be not too sure of right and wrong
Of good and ill; of weak and strong;
For often only Time can tell
Whether the fates have used us well.

The disappointment and the doubt
Which oft we fret so much about
And would escape, may prove to be
The fruitful seed of victory.
The loss at which we now complain
May breed tomorrow's larger gain.

We know not whence our failure springs,
Nor what today's disaster brings.
The day is ours; the past no more!
The future is a bolted door.
The ill we'd fly from if we could
We yet may look upon as good.

None knows the answer; none can say
What gain or loss was born today.
Sometimes so great is victory's cost
That it were better to have lost.
And often crosses weigh us down
That we may later win a crown.

New Closing Hours For Red Cross And Charities Offices

Offices Will Not Be Open Saturday Afternoons, Close At 4 O'clock Week Days

Because of the tremendous rush of business, occasioned by the work being done on the Mayor's Relief Committee, the office hours of the Associated Charities and Red Cross are being changed.

Heretofore the offices have been open on Saturday afternoons, and until 5 o'clock on week days.

Starting next week, the offices will be open only until 4 o'clock and will close entirely on Saturday afternoons. This will give the secretaries an opportunity to get caught up in the regular office duties.

Bad Check Artist Operates In City

Chief Horner Takes Occasion To Issue A Second Warning To The People Of City

E. J. Cramer, manager of the Cramer store, Washington street, near Mill street, reported last night to the police that a man had appeared in his place of business and purchased two suits of clothing amounting to $25.50.

He presented a check presumably drawn on the New Castle Lime and Stone Company for $67 in payment and received $41.50 in change. He took the suits and placed them in a Nash car bearing Illionis license 208-718 according to Mr. Cramer in which there was a woman and drove away.

Later Mr. Cramer discovered that the check was a forgery. The man gave the name of Charles Leonard and said he lived at 318 Butler avenue. Investigation showed that the house at that number was vacant, then it became apparent that the check was a forgery.

The man passing the check was between 42-45 years of age, large in size, weighing probably 210 pounds and about six feet in height. He was smooth faced and well dressed. The woman in the car was stout.

Chief C. C. Horner commenting on the case said that he hoped that this would be sufficent to warn the merchants again against cashing the checks of any person unknown to them.

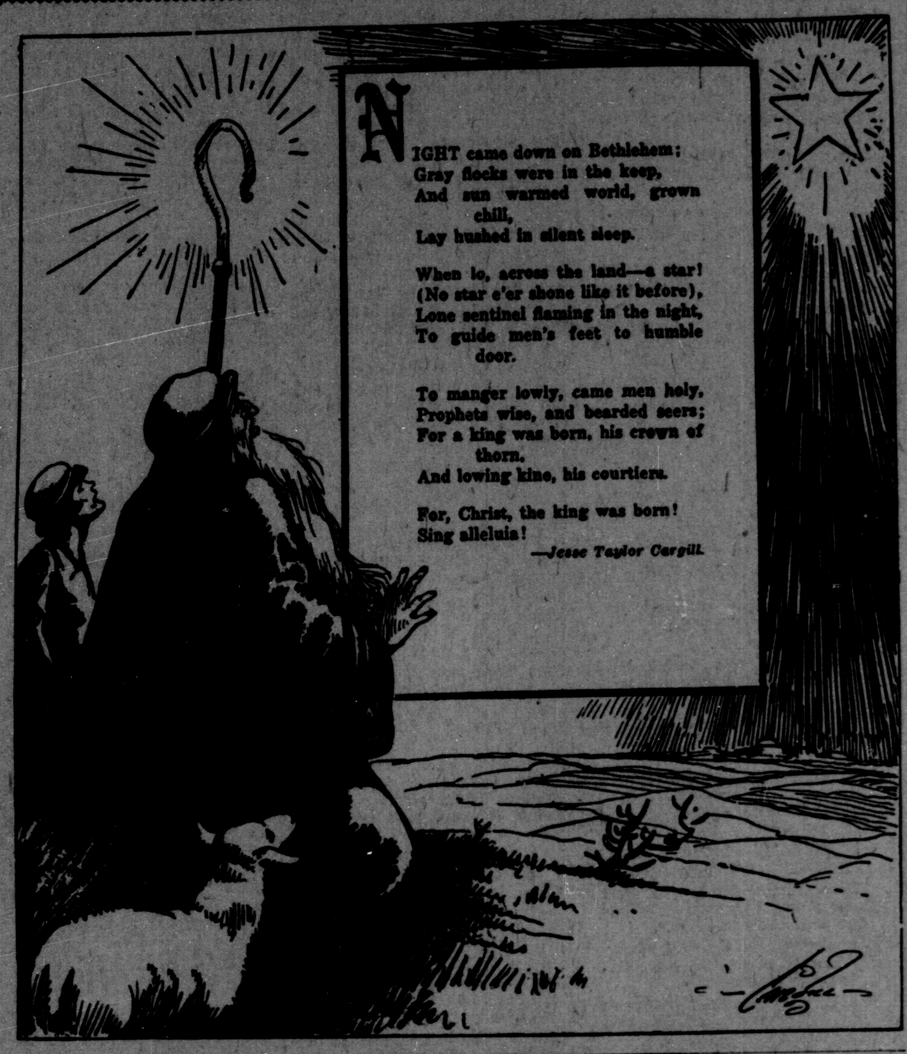
THE NATIVITY



NIGHT came down on Bethlehem;
Gray flocks were in the keep,
And sun warmed world, grown chill,
Lay hushed in silent sleep.

When lo, across the land—a star!
(No star e'er shone like it before),
Lone sentinel flaming in the night,
To guide men's feet to humble door.

To manger lowly, came men holy,
Prophets wise, and bearded seers;
For a king was born, his crown of thorn.
And loving kine, his courtiers.

For, Christ, the king was born!
Sing alleluia!

American Financial Leader Is Confident Germany Will "Pay"

Thomas W. Lamont, Expresses Belief That Private German Loans Will Be Repaid

One New York Bank Revealed Loaned $70,000,000 To Germany On Short Credit

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—While administration leaders were applying pressure in Congress for early approval of the Hoover moratorium on European war debts, the Senate finance committee Friday heard a partner of J. P. Morgan and Co. declare his firm conviction that private German loans and debts were sound and would "ultimately be paid."

Thomas W. Lamont, veteran partner of the great international banking firm, appearing as the first witness in the committee's investigation into foreign security sales in the United States in the past decade, declared furher that popular belief regarding the extent of German short term credits held by American banks was "largely exaggerated" and that such loans were not a menace to the "American banking community".

The largest amount of these credits held by any one bank, Lamont declared, was $70,000,000 by a large New York bank. This sum, while large, he stated, in no way endangered the security and stability of the institution.

The "spread" for handling these vast sums of securities, Lamont testified, varied from a fraction of one per cent to five and six per cent. He denied that this was a "profit", explaining it covered the cost of floating the issue.

Denies Coercion

He emphatically denied that "coercion" was used to distribute the bonds among smaller banks. Banks frequently decline to purchase foreign issues offered them.

New York bankers have been submitting foreign loans to the State Department for approval since 1920, when they were requested to do so by President Harding. This approval, he explained, is conveyed in a "negative way". If the department has no objection to the issue it so advises the banking house. Morgan and Co. followed this practice long before 1920, he declared.

Lamont said the investment bankers handling foreign securities never advertised the bonds have the approval of the government.

City Mission Lays Yule Dinner Plans For Needy; Food Ingathering Starts

By this time that sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner has about disappeared, or at least it should have, and you are looking forward to a Christmas feed. Your anticipation of this Christmas dinner is one of greatest pleasure; you don't have to worry about weather to have roast duck or a piece of side meat. While you are looking forward to this delicious big dinner you will be eating in a few days, you probably don't stop to think that not everyone in New Castle is so fortunate.

Some Must Skimp

There are people in this city to whom Christmas merely means the 25th of December. Not for these will a steaming dinner table groan under its delicious load of tasty edibles, nor will there be the pleasant after-glow of friends and relatives clustered about a roaring fireplace, within the radiance of a lovely room, filled with the sweet warm odor of the Christmas tree, and everywhere the sight of the cheery holiday ornaments. The number of those who will be denied these pleasures on Christmas is, fortunately, few; but unless some of us help, these dinners may consist of a ring of bologna and a chunk of rye bread—all which may taste well enough for a midnight lunch, but as an entree for Christmas dinner it rather loses its appeal.

Wouldn't it seem Christian-like for you to help these less fortunate at this time? Wouldn't our dinner taste a little sweeter and digest a little easier if we knew that somewhere in the city a lot of youngsters were enjoying a good dinner through our aid? We can do it, for down on South Mercer street there is an organization known as The City Rescue Mission, with B. J. Watkins, as its superintendent. Every year they send out Christmas baskets to the unfortunate. These baskets contain food for a good dinner, and are given to those who really need this aid.

Let's Fill Them

Let's help to fill these baskets; let's donate a loaf of bread or a can of tomatoes, or a pound of sugar, beans, coffee, milk, or some oranges. All you need to do is to furnish this food, or the money to provide it. It calls for a lot of help to fill these baskets this year. Just as a reminder, here is a list of necessary articles. Look over this list and let the Mission know how much you can provide. Mr. Watkins isn't a bit "choosie" he doesn't care whether you provide some of the chicken or apples or canned milk.

He needs all these things so that dinners may be provided for a lot of people who, through no fault of their own, will not have the kind of dinner you are expecting to enjoy:

80 chickens or roasts
400 loaves of bread
40 bushel potatoes
100 pounds of coffee
100 cans of tomatoes or corn
100 cans of milk
100 pounds of beans
100 pounds rice
200 pounds of sugar.

WEEKLY LETTER

The Castleton
Monday, Dec. 21, 1931.
12:15 to 1:30 p. m.

Fellow Rotarian:

We all think the price of everything should come down, that is, what we buy from the other fellow. And it is open season on the tax-levying bodies, hence the program for Monday, "Public Finance."

While we may be subsidized and afraid to discuss such things as Lake Erie stations, public utility rates and advertising rates, nobody loves a public official that has anything to do with the matter of taxes so we are all invited to enter the discussion Monday. George Ferver will make the key note speech. W. T. Burns will be present to explain city finances, a representative from the school board will be prepared with a defense and if it is possible to find any courageous men to defend county finances, they will be present.

Remember, you are invited to take part in the discussion Monday or forever after pay your taxes without complaint.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Taxi drivers don't mind waiting outside places with apparently only one exit, but they are extremely skeptical when fares request to be driven to Grand Central Terminal or Madison Square Garden, adding: "Just wait for me. I'll be out in a minute."

The other day, faced with the necessity of reaching a hotel in order to broadcast in exactly 16 minutes, with no time to get a check cashed and without a penny in my pocket, I hailed a hack and explained the situation. The driver shook his head sadly.

"Not me. One of you guys scrammed on me this morning."

The hackie just behind was willing to take a chance. As I rushed into the building, which has several outlets on as many streets, he called: "Don't forget the street I'm waiting on, mister."

Later, back at home, when I prepared to pay him off, he grinned: "Clip a quarter from the ticket. I won a dollar on you just now, and I'll give you a percentage for being a good sport. Another driver, the dope, bet me you wouldn't show. He saw you going in."

HOP, SKIP AND JUMP

One of the oddest sights in my part of town is that modernistic shop advertising "Domestic and Imported Nuts," which is often brightly lighted and holding a customer or two at

"Just wait for me. I'll be back in a minute."

2 a. m. of a Monday morning, while mid-morning week days finds the place shuttered . . . The same site, as a cordials and beverages emporium, was raided half a dozen times . . . There is a shimmery mesh of cobweb over the bright-hued boxes of nuts in the window . . .

An annonymous letter to Samuel Seabury, the graft-quizzer, now at work on New York, began: "Supplement indictments! Supplementary copies of supplements as herein and hereintofore and hereinafter set forth and referred to as being herein and hereinafter. Stop" . . . Mr. Seabury, impressed by the hot tip, is rapidly running down those stinging allegations . . .

The Public Library is worried over the way books disappear, even with guards to search packages at every exit and sleuths mingling with the readers . . . Frank Crowninshield, the suave editor of Vanity Fair, is totally unable to understand why radio execs were shocked by his allusion to champagne the other night over the air . . .

FAN FLUTTERS

Duty bound to meet one of the major screen luminaries arriving in Pennsylvania station the other morning, I fell to musing over the crowd of exactly 12 people who welcomed the celebrity—and over the fact that the star slipped off to his hotel with scarcely a whisper or a point among the folk about.

Time was when no reel rajah could arrive without being met by a noisy mob, made up in nucleus, at any rate, of members of the fan club formed in his honor. Fans clubs seem to have faded almost entirely from the Manhattan picture, and I hear they are distinctly in the background elsewhere.

But not quite. Not long ago Ruth Roland, I am told, was welcomed to Chicago by an enthusiastic fan club, which gave her a dinner. Now Miss Roland, currently featured by Fanchon and Marco in movie-palace revues, was the heroine of a score of blood-and-thunder serials 12 years ago. The club, which turned out to greet her, sprang to life when they heard she was coming. And they talk of the phantom fame of screen stars!

Many recall that when Betty Compson went to England six or seven years ago, her club of Manhattan admirers stormed the ship and refused to leave until she had shaken every single hand and autographed every single photo. The ship stewards, indignant but helpless could do nothing. It took the captain himself to oust the Betty Compson club, and the ship sailed half an hour late.

I am all abuzz over the news I'm going to break to you here in a few days. Keep the reading glass polished!

Ancient Deed May Bring Woman Fortune

Possession of an ancient deed issued back in the seventeenth century to Reserved Waldron, former resident of Holland, for land in the Harlem District of Manhattan Island, on which New York City, is located, may prove a wonderful piece of good fortune to Mrs. Lillian Walker, of 318 Bell avenue, a woman well advanced in years, and without a great abundance of this world's goods, as well as to a cousin, John Dix of North Mercer street.

The deed has been in possession of Mrs. Walker for forty-nine years, having been placed in her keeping by an uncle Joseph Campbell just prior to his death.

Considered of little consequence, except for the fact that it was a curious old document and might have value as a keepsake and on account of its rare old age, Mrs. Walker was surprised a few days ago to get a letter from a firm of lawyers, asking that she sign certain papers enclosed, which were in effect that she was the possessor of the deed and a descendant of the person to whom it was issued and intimating that there was a probability of securing some remuneration as a result of these facts. The necessary papers have been forwarded to the lawyers.

It appears that the land for which the deed of Mrs. Walker calls, is located in the heart of the Harlem district of New York and that Hotel Astor is built on a part of it. Recently, the government desired a part of the land covered by the deed for use as an airport and when the deeds were looked up, it was found that a clear title was not available.

The government would not accept the land until a clear title was obtained and the search for the original deed was made and it was traced to Mrs. Walker. It appears that while there are many buildings, including the hotel mentioned already built on the land, that the title is still invested in the descendants of Reserved Waldron, the ancestor of Mrs. Walker and Mr. Dix. They are apparently the only heirs in this instance.

The deed records the fact that King James II of England records the title of the land in question, located in Harlem Colony, Island of Manhattan in the name of Reserved Waldron.

Officers Laud "F" During Inspection

Major Wolfe Tells Guardsmen That Troop Here Leads Regiment In Attendance

State military officers last night praised Troop F at the year's final inspection which lasted two hours in the Neshannock avenue armory.

Maj. Samuel B. Wolfe, commander of the second squadron, Pennsylvania 103rd Cavalry, Pennsylvania National Guard, and Capt. James M. Shelton, U. S. Army instructor for the 103rd viewed the troop at drill tactics and inspected the arms and equipment stored in New Castle.

Maj. Wolfe addressed the 59 guardsmen present, telling that "F" led the entire 103rd regiment with 12 troops during the past four months in the matter of drill attendance. The local average during that period was 92 per cent.

In addition to the guardsmen at the inspection, the armory drill floor was filled with spectators. The civilian committee was also represented.

Affair Proves Very Enjoyable To Large Group Of Members

Friday evening some 40 members of the Knights of Pythias were the guests of New Castle lodge No. 160. Knights of Pythias, at a fish fry held in the lodge rooms of the lodge on East street. After a bounteous repast of fish and other good things had been served, A. J. Howell as master of ceremonies called upon visiting members of the local lodge to make a few remarks. NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 19.—Twice floored, beaten and robbed of $15 while his wife was at a mail box a quarter of a mile away, W. D. Dawson, 82, of Dawson road, near Culmerville, is under a physician's care as state police in Butler barracks hold the victim's three alleged assailants, including Dawson's disowned grandson.

Privates Alvin Knudson and Louis Bebilacqua of troop D arrested Frank Dawson, 21, who recently came here after serving in the United States army; James C. Callen, 26, and his brother, Reuben Callen, 22, of First avenue, Brackenridge, soon after the attack.

Dawson was beaten and robbed of $75 December 15, 1930, in his home by two men who were never apprehended. He operates a small custom coal mine on his farm. He said his assailants in yesterday's attack were not those who beat him last December.

Kiwanis Henry Home Treat In Storage For Delivery

While they're not likely to appear any place wearing whiskers or stocking caps with flapping tassels, each member of the New Castle Kiwanis club will be serving in his traditional role of Santa in disguise this Christmas.

No doubt the word by this time has spread to the Margaret L. Henry Children's Home, where 53 boys and girls are numbered on the Kiwanis gift list this year. Annually, the club underwrites the expense for toys or anything else that the children may so desire.

It has been the custom to permit each youngster to submit his own gift preference, and that plan was followed again this year.

Under the direction of the Kiwanis' Christmas committee, of which Ralph M. Campbell is chairman, the toy collection and wrapping has been finished. Separate tag names have been tied to each neatly-decorated package, to distinguish the different gifts.

Today the Christmas treat was sidetracked in the wareroom at the New Castle Dry Goods store, but next week the Santa delivery trucks will get the clear signal and dash to the home with the presents.

Up there will be a special Santa, who serves the kiddies each year, to distribute the gifts from the club.

OUTLIVED 14 GOVERNORS

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Recently at the Peoria State hospital, a patient died after being a ward of the state for forty-nine years and ten months. She was eighty-one years old and had outlived all but four of the fourteen men who had served Illinois as governor during her lifetime. Twelve presidents were elected and she survived all but two of them. During all the years she was a state ward she never had visitor and no inquiries were ever made about her.

County Blind To Be Lions' Guests

Dinner Program For Local Sightless Folk Occurs Next Tuesday

WILL PASS CANES AT CHURCH EVENT

That merriment and joy might be kindled for a large number of Lawrence county blind folk whose sightless lives they are everlastingly trying to brighten, a gala Christmas time party, under the auspices of the city's Lions club club, will be given in the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church dining room on Tuesday evening, December 22.

Besides the blind group, the Lions will play host to their wives and representatives of various civic organizations interested in service work among the blind.

Starts With Dinner.

A dinner at 6:30 o'clock that evening will inaugurate the evening's program, following which will come a round of speaking and entertainment. Welcomes will be given and responses will be made, and, through it all, the unseeing guests will sit and enjoy the festivities by listening.

Lion John E. Paton, director of instrumental music at the George Washington junior high school, will lead the Washington orchestra in its concert during dinner. They will also play later.

Pep singing will inject a lively note into the evening's program, with Lion W. O. "Red" Williams at the lead.

There will be a sparkling Christmas tree, illuminated for the dinner event. Underneath will be heaping Christmas baskets filled with food and presents, the latter being the gift of the Ladies of the Lions. When the proper time comes, Santa William Hodgkinson will distribute the baskets to each blind guest.

Will Present Canes.

Another feature, perhaps the biggest moment in the dinner program, will come when Dr. Thomas Shaffer presents newly-procured Lions blind canes to the men and women whom a new city blind ordinance will help protect. The canes, painted in the official red and white advising care, will give owners the right-of-way over vehicle travel at street intersections where traffic is not regulated.

City Solicitor Robert M. White, who steered the ordinance through city council, will explain the full details of the cane law.

Dr. G. S. Bennett is to convey the official welcome of the clubmen at the beginning of the program and two blind guests are expected to respond.

Other numbers include a comedy act by a visiting vaudeville team, numbers by several different quartets and special musical numbers by others.

Presiding will be Earl A. Ramsey, who will be introduced by the president of the club, Earl E. Book.

Members of the Lions' blind work committee, which direct major service activity, include Lions Shaffer, Ramsey, R. F. Conway, C. G. Snyder and Wylie McClelland.

Young People's Society Presents Pantomime "His Glory" Friday Evening

The annual Christmas program was given in the Highland United Presbyterian Sunday School room Friday evening with the Y. P. C. U. in charge.

Most spectacular and impressive was their presentation of "His Glory" with special electrical effects. Miss Lois Williamson directed the pageant and Dr. C. J. Williamson was the reader.

The various scenes depicted the Biblical story leading up to the birth of Jesus and "His Glory." Dr. McFate, Albert Dodds and Henry Brenneman were stage managers.

A chorus of young people sang the accompanying hymns, with Elizabeth Eckles at the piano. The electrical work was done by J. P. Merrilees and R. S. Cline, members of the Men's Bible class, Miss Thelma Howell was in charge of the costumes, which were loaned through the courtesy of the Junior Order of American Mechanics.

Those taking part were: Mary, Virginia Harris; Jacob, Robert Emery; Moses, David Harris; Joseph, William Offutt; Angels, Lucille Emery, Georgia Parker, Gertrude Smith, Betty Houston and Virginia Wimer.

The priests and shepherds were Russell Johnston, Russell Tait, Graham Patterson, Norman VanBrockler, Lucille Kison, Katherine Dickson; Girls of the Nations: Dorothy Blim, Hazel Brenneman, Catherine Elder, Betty McKee and Dorothy Titus, Margaret and Gertrude Graham. Would Put $876,132 In Circulation Here

By ARTHUR C. WEBER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 19.—Approximately $876,132 would be put into circulation in New Castle if the Federal Government paid in cash the adjusted service certificates of veterans, according to Representative Wright Patman of Texas.

Mr. Patman urged before the House immediate cash payment of the certificates and presented figures calculated to show that immediate cash payment of the certificates and presented figures calculated to show that immediate payment would save the country ultimately many millions of dollars.

The Congressman presented data to the effect that 252,388 Pennsylvania veterans now hold certificates with a cash value of $172,888,542. If these certificates are not paid until their maturity and the money for their payment is raised by income tax, residents of the Keystone State will pay $187,738,583 in this tax, whereas immediate payment of the certificates would cost only $172,888,542, Mr. Patman argued.

According to the Congressman's reasoning, payment of the certificates now would mean that cash would go to Pennsylvania veterans equivalent to about $18 per resident of the State. Hence, approximately $876,132 would be put into circulation in New Castle, he reported.

New Police Chief For Youngstown

Expect Reorganization Of Police Force In Neighboring Ohio City

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 19—Following Mayor-elect, Mark E. Moore's announcement today that R. Leroy Goodwin, superintendent of the police bureau of identification, would become chief of police January 1, members of the police department freely predicted that there would be a thorough reorganization of the department.

Goodwin himself refused to discuss his plans, but it is known that he regards some changes as necessary.

While announcing Goodwin's appointment Moore also released the appointments of the officials to fill the remaining important posts in his cabinet.

Other Appointments

Tom J. Kane, local contractor and former examiner of engineers for the state, becomes park commissioner, to succeed Lionel Evans, who has served as park commissioner for more than 20 years.

Dan C. Parish, another contractor, and one of Moore's strongest supporters, is appointed water works commissioner, replacing William D. Cregan, who was appointed more than two years ago.

Combining the positions now held by Edward Obendorfer as building inspector and Gerald S. Gimre as zoning engineer, Moore chose Fred C. Medicus, local architect to handle both jobs.

Replacing Dr. H. H. Welch, who has been responsible for the city's health for nearly 35 years, Moore appointed Dr. C. H. Beight as health commissioner. Dr. Beight is Moore's uncle by marriage.

The total production of electricity by public utility plants in 1929 amounted to 97,283,000,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of nearly 11 per cent over the total for 1928.

Ellwood Wins Opening Game

Mt. Jackson High Is Defeated In Good Game 23 To 16

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 19.—Todd Lloyd's Ellwood high basketeers romped away to a 23-16 win over Mt. Jackson in their schedule opener before a big crowd at Lincoln gym Friday night.

The home boys lost the lead only once throughout the entire game, but they were in front at the close of every period. The play was fast and had its share of thrills as the floor artists made field goals from any angle of the floor. Good defensive work by both teams was shown.

Mt. Jackson started the scoring when Kane registered from under the basket after a period of play. Another lengthy session of scrimmage occurred before a score was made. Forsythe chalked up a foul to his account, but this was offset by a free throw and a basket by Greider. Apparently this spurred the Lloyd proteges to greater efforts as Smith accredited himself with a foul and Forsythe and Latiano, a basket apiece, to give Ellwood a 6.5 lead at the end of the period.

In the ensuing quarter the locals managed to gain another point over their opponents. The visitors sent the ball through the hoops three times with W. Ausen and Klane on the flinging end, before Ellwood started its next drive. Kennedy, Barnes, and Latiano were in the scoring rolls as Ellwood again forges to the front. The latter counted up a free throw as the half ended with Ellwood enjoying a 13-11 lead.

The locals continued to outscore their opponents in the third quarter in which there was not much scoring done by either team. The Ellwood quintet revealed some fine defensive qualities in the remainder of the game. They held the visitors to a foul goal in this period while they added five points to their score. Kennedy made an easy shot from under the basket and Barnes dribbled the length of the floor to score the other one. Tony Latiano added a foul goal to make the score stand at 18-12 for the home team at the close of the quarter.

In the final stanza the blue and white kept up their fine defensive work to hold Mt. Jackson to a basket and two free throws. The period started out with Bolotin and St. Clair registering two charity throws which was followed by a double decker apiece by Barnes and Casto for their respective teams. Mt. Jackson advanced a point as Greider accounted for a foul throw. This was off-set by Smith who got the last score of the evening with a beautiful long shot from the side of the court, to make the final score of the contest stand at 23-16.

Kennedy, Barnes, and Forsythe played a fine offensive game, each acquiring two field goals. The defensive work of Mike Dudick was outstanding.

Klane was the outstanding performer for the visitors, being the high scorer with three baskets.

The lineup:—

TO SCHEDULE ELLWOOD NEW CASTLE FOOTBALL GAME FOR NEXT FALL

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 19.—Ellwood City and New Castle High Schools will resume grid relations next fall. In a conference at the New Castle Senior High School at 5:30 Friday evening, satisfactory arrangements were completed for the game to take place on Friday evening, November 21 at Taggart stadium, weather permitting.

The arrangements were completed by representatives of the schools. The local representatives were James Fitzgerald, chairman of the Athletic committee, and Faculty Manager P. L. Uber. Besides these there were A. C. Hyde Chairman of the New Castle Athletic Council, Faculty Manager, R. H. Gardner, and Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, were present at the time.

At a meeting of the Ellwood City Board of Education last Monday evening the possibilities of the game were discussed. All but two members were in favor of resuming grid relations with New Castle.

The board expressed its apropval of continuing grid relations for one year and if proper behavior is experienced the game may be an annual affair. President of the Board, J. A. Evans instructed Mr. Fitzgerald to hear New Castle's proposition on the matter, and both representatives at the meeting were very pleased with the results.

Schools authorities were pleased with the way Ellwood and the Junior High Schools of New Castle have been conducting athletic relations in the past three years.

It was agreed that the game would materialize on Friday evening, November 21 if the weather permits. If it is raining and the field is in a soggy condition it will be postponed until the following day, Saturday, November 22.

Only a few minor matters remain to be straightened out as yet. A vote of the New Castle Athletic Council and the Ellwood City Board of Education is necessary before the game can go through.

Taggart stadium is the logical place for such a game to take place. New Castle has the seating accommodations which is a matter of great importance to both schools. It is an occasion when practically both towns attend the game in full force. The crowd was so great in 1925 at Ellwood City that a Church on the School grounds caved in to the weight of the crowd on the roof. Several persons were hurt at the time. It was impossible to find any more space where the game could be watched from.

Scott Defeats New Castle High, 26-25

NEW CASTLE LOSES IN FINAL MINUTE

Red And Black Cagers Lose Thrilling Opener To Stake Champs Friday

John Uram Stars With Three Field Goals; Several Hundred See Game

There were thrills galore at the George Washington junior high floor Friday night when the New Castle high red and black clad basketball team fell by the wayside to a smooth Scott high team of North Braddock in the opening contest of the 1931-32 floor season. The final score was 26-25. Several hundred spectators witnessed the "hair raising" tilt.

The Tin City passers opposed the champs with a fast combination. New Castle secured an early lead and maintained it for three and a half quarters. The Scott players in the third canto started to cut down a 9-point lead and finally with 15 seconds left to play, Henry Ferguson, in his first schoolboy contest, dribbled down the side of the spacious Washington floor and let loose a shot from near center. The ball went thru the hoops without touching the rim.

One more play and the game was over. The fracas from start to finish was fast and had some 400 or more fans on their heels time and again. In the opening quarter the local team started out like a tornado. As the whistle ended play in the first quarter the local machine was on top, 11-3. Reiber started the scoring by sinking two fouls. He later scored another foul. John Uram rang in three fouls. Nick Uram made a field goal from the foul line. The other two points were scored by Andy Lasky, who made a pretty pivot around Bache late in the quarter. Phillips tallied a field goal from the center of the court Krul annexed a foul for Scott's three points. The score at the end of the first quarter: New Castle 11, Scott 3.

Half Ends 15-6.

In the second quarter the local quintet registered only four points. Scott found the hoops for three markers. Krul dribbled under the basket and made it count. J. Uram for New Castle annexed a foul. Bache, Scott center, was ruled out of the game on account of the four personal fouls rule. H. Ferguson replaced him. Reiber made one of two free tosses for the locals. John Uram dribbled from center and let loose a shot from the side of the floor. It was a pretty shot and scored. H. Ferguson rang in a foul. The whistle sounded, ending the half. New Castle left the floor leading 15-6.

Scott started its rally immediately at the beginning of the third quarter. The third period saw the North Braddock purple clad passers come through with 11 points. New Castle hesitated in this stanza. Only six points were registered by the Tin City ramblers. Krutulis, all state guard, started the rally by caging a goal at the start of the canto. Vaniel scored a foul and a field goal. Ralph Ferguson tallied a goal under the basket. Krul annexed two pretty markers. One he scored by dribbling under the basket and the other he caged from the side, one handed.

John Uram added three points in the quarter, scoring a field goal by dribbling in and a foul. Lasky tallied two fouls and Nick Uram sank in a foul. The third quarter ended with New Castle still occupying the top berth, 21-17. It was evident that the local team appeared to be getting reckless and tired. Instead of playing the cool brand of basketball it was demonstrating in the opening two quarters the Coach Bridenbaugh cohorts were playing too open and missing considerably.

The fourth quarter will be remembered for a long time by the adherents of both combinations. Vaniel cut New Castle's lead to three points by sinking in a foul. The score was 21-18. J. Uram sent the crowd in an uproar by caging a field goal from the side. J. Uram missed a free toss. Nick Uram gave the locals a six-point lead by making good a free throw. The score was 24-18. Phillips dribbled his way to the basket and let loose a perfect shot. Vaniel came right back with a spectacular one-handed shot. It was good. The score at the time was 24-22. Vaniel was ruled out of the game on account of four personal fouls.

Halligan was injected into the fray. Lasky made good one of two tries from the charity mark. The score was 25-22. Krutulis made good a foul as Nick Uram went out of the tilt for violating the four personal fouls rule. Ostrosky was sent in. H. Ferguson came back with a foul as the score favored New Castle 25-24. There remained but 15 seconds to play and Reiber was at the foul line. He missed his toss, and Henry Ferguson snatched the sphere and dribbled to the side and shot one-handed near mid-center. The ball connected perfectly without touching the rim. The score was 26-25 with Scott on top.

As the two teams lined up Teplica secured the tip off and the whistle sounded, ending the game. Referee Harr ruled a foul but the game was over and Teplica did not shoot the foul. Harr failed to hear the whistle which ended the game due to the noise. The final score favored the Pennsylvania champs, 26-25.

The work of Johnny Uram was noticeable. He took the scoring honors with three field goals and 6 out of 7 fouls. Lasky turned in one field goal and 3 out of 7 free throws. Reiber scored 4 out fo 5 fouls and Nick Uram looked impressive as he found the hoops for one field goal and 2 out of 4 fouls. John Teplica failed to get on the scoring list. G. Krul with three field goals and the Ferguson brothers, Ralph and Henry, were outstanding for the North Braddock team.

Leslie Harr, the official, called a total of 34 fouls which delayed the game a bit. Next Tuesday night the New Castle team will be called to meet the Pitt Freshies at the George Washington floor.

The lineup:

The Unionites never threatened after the first quarter which ended 6 to 5 in favor of the College Towners.

Eagleson, Sharp and Gillian divided scoring honors for the victorious New Wilmington team garnering four field goals apiece.

Drastic Reforms For Football In 1932 May Come From Committee

Football Rules Committee Laying Groundwork For Meeting In New York

Almost Certain That Several Important Changes Will Occur In Grid Rules

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Drastic reforms in football will be urged late this month at a preliminary meeting of the football rules committee.

For more than six weeks the ten members of the committee have been canvassing their particular districts, asking all leaders in the game to submit suggestions and criticisms. These all will be compiled before the committee meets in the New York district about December 30th and each committeeman then will lay his report before the committee as a whole.

Better Conditions

The entire findings then will be made part of a whole-committee report and the committeemen will study the situation through January and into February and be prepared, in the regular meeting then to take action to better conditions within the game of football and in the precincts just outlying.

E. K. Hall of Hanover, N. H., chairman of the rules committee, today advised International News Service that the information as to possible recommendations for changes in football rules, was now being assembled but he declined to comment on any proposed changes at this time.

Refuse Statements

In answer to a telegram asking what suggestions he might offer O. Henry Smith, of Boulder, Colorado, who is committeeman in the Rocky Mountains district, replied:

"My report on football in Rocky Mountain area will be presented at rules committee meeting. At present no forecast of contests available, as concensus of opinion in this district has not been taken."

Alonzo A. Stagg, coach at Chicago, and also a member of the body, wired:

"Rules committee endeavoring to collect facts. Unwilling to make statement."

T. A. D. Jones, wiring from New Haven, stated:

"Rules committee now making survey of situation. Prefer to make no statement in advance of committee meeting."

W. S. Langford, of New York, telephoned and said:

"We are getting up reports from different sections and these will be presented at the meeting. None of these reports is complete at this time and I have no further statement to make."

Wooden, Purdue's great guard, played a beautiful game although he went out on a personal foul in the final minutes as did Capt. Kellar. Kowallis stood out for the Panthers, with Wrobleski and McCommant, forwards, unable to do much against the Purdue defense.

Chicago Fish-Peddler Slugger Sets Loughran Down Four Times

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—Tommy Loughran, dapper Philadelphia professor who has been giving boxing lessons to heavyweight hopefuls for lo, these many years, found himself at the end of the fistic trial today while King Levinsky, a new star, usurped his place in one of the year's outstanding upsets.

Levinsky, former Chicago fish peddler, floored the old master three times for a count of nine in their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night, and walked off with the decision.

Loughran, a 3 to 1 favorite was on Queer street on several other occasions and was saved from a knockout by his experience and Levinsky's over-anxiousness.

Kentucky Passers Top Carnegie Tech

Kentucky Quintet Hands Tech 36 To 34 Upset In Battle Friday Night

(International News Service)

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 19.—Kentucky's sharpshooting cage squad today held a 36 to 34 victory over Carnegie Tech basketeers in the first clash on the outward bound tour of the Pittsburgh five.

Led by De Moisey, a sophomore center, Kentucky played a brilliant game to nose out the classy Tartan aggregation and rapidly overhauled a short lead the invaders piled up in the opening minutes.

Jagnow and Ruadbaugh led the scoring for Carnegie, with De Moisey starring throughout for Kentucky.

The proof of a political theory, like that of a pudding, is in the eating.

Slight Changes In Floor Rules Made

With the basketball season started it would be of interest to followers of the indoor sport to know that several changes have been made in the rules of the game.

In order to shorten delays, the two-minute time out periods have been reduced to one minute. Even with this change, ample provision is made for injured and exhausted players. Another change makes it possible to grant time out whenever the ball is dead, thus abolishing the exception "after the ball is in position for one or more free throws."

The referee will be required to obtain the approval of the captain for a substitution when the team has no coach or other person authorized to make such substitutions. In the list of personal fouls a player may be disqualified for fouling an opponent who is in the act of shooting, if the offender is exceptionally rough and makes no attempt to block the ball.

A recommendation has been made that spaces be marked on the free throw lanes, these spaces thus becoming mandatory. The back-court will be half of the court remote from the player's own basket.

In regards to overtime periods for boys of high school age and younger, the recommendation becomes a part of section three and the provisions compulsory. If the score is deadlocked at the end of the second overtime period the team which first scores two points in the third overtime period will be the winner, unless the teams have agreed to settle it otherwise during the intermission following the first overtime period.

On Free Throws

On any free throws, if the free thrower consumes more than 10 seconds, crosses the line too soon; if one of his teammates enters the lane too soon, or if players of both teams break this rule, the ball is to be tossed up at center instead of at the nearer free throw line. This applies to all free throws, with the exception of multiple throws, in which case it would apply to the last throw only. Another provision forbids the players to touch the ball on a free throw unless it has touched the basket or backboard.

If the ball does not touch the basket or backboard it is to be awarded the opposing side out of bounds on the side. This applies only to free throws, following which the ball would ordinarily be in play if the free throw was missed. On free throws resulting from double fouls or technical fouls, players are not to line up on the free throw line.

Also a suggestion has been made that players be numbered both front and rear. This is convenient for the officials, though not compulsory.

Ralph Greenlead of New York was assured a tie for the world's pocket billiard championship last night at Philadelphia when he defeated Frank Taberski, Schenectady, 125-70 in 11 innings. In another match, George Kelly beat Andrew Ponzi.

Midshipman James R. Reedy, Cleveland, was elected captain of the 1932 Navy football team. Reedy, a guard succeeds the great center, Magruder Tuttle of Lenoir, N. C. A. C. Jones, Sabetha, Kas., was named manager.

(2) Wiley Post and Harold Gatty accomplished "the impossible" by flying around the world in eight days and 15 hours, starting and finishing the epic flight at Roosevelt Field, New York. (3) The largest dirigible in the world, the U. S. S. Akron, was successfully launched and made her maiden trip at Akron, Ohio, on September 23. (4) Auguste Piccard and an assistant flew to 50,000 feet into the stratosphere in a sealed ball, on May 27, landing in the Austrian Tyrol eighteen hours after their take-off from Augsburg, Germany. (5) On August 27 the huge German flying boat DO-X came to rest on New York Harbor after completing a flight of 12,000 miles which started in Germany on November 5, 1930. (6) The most impenetrable mystery of the year was the death of Starr Faithfull, beautiful New York society girl, whose body was found on a deserted beach on Long Island. Whether she was the victim of murder, suicide or accident has never been established. (7) The year was remarkable for the number of foreign diplomats who came here to confer with the President. Mr. Hoover is shown in composite with Premier Laval of France and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, who discussed international affairs with the Chief Executive at Washington, D. C. (8) The world lost its most brilliant inventive genius in the death of Thomas A. Edison at his home in Orange, N. J., on October 18, at the age of 84. (9) Depicts an event of great importance to the Catholic Church. Pope Pius XI is shown as he delivered the first radio address from the new station built in Vatican City, February 12. (10) Spain became a Republic with the abdication of King Alfonso on April 14. His queen, Victoria, who fled with him, is shown bidding farewell to her courtiers on the French border where she found refuge. (11) A new field of exploration was opened up by Sir Hubert Wilkins, who left Provincetown, Mass., on June 4, on the first leg of the voyage under the Arctic ice in the submarine Nautilus. (12) The world was stirred when Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, arrived in London on September 12 to attend the Round Table Conference, seeking freedom for India. Gandhi visited the King in Buckingham Palace wearing a loin cloth. (13) The dove of peace was again put to flight when Japanese forces invaded Manchuria. (14) On March 31, a catastrophe overwhelmed Managua, Nicaragua, when an earthquake shook the city to its foundations, killing approximately 2,000 persons and causing property damage estimated at $30,000,000, as well as injuring 10,000 of the population.

NEW SPORTS CHAMPIONS of 1931.

LEFTY GROVE HELEN HICKS TONY CANZONERI NAVY CREW ELLSWORTH VINES

As 1931 sinks towards the limbo of other back numbers in the calendar, it is interesting to review how it figures in the history of sports and what champions it brought forth to add to the list of former years. On the tennis courts, Helen Wills Moody, who allowed her title to go undefended in 1930, came back in '31 and regained her crown in a blaze of glory. The real tennis sensation of the year, however, was 19-year-old Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Cal., who battered his way through a phalanx of veterans to win the men's title. On the links, the Women's National Championship was captured by 20-year-old Helen Hicks, and Francis Ouimet, battle-scarred veteran, made a glorious comeback to recapture the men's national amateur title that he first won back in 1914. In the water, Clarence Crabbe, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, took the National Swim Championship, smashing the half-mile free-style mark with a record of 10 minutes and 20.4 seconds. The Queen Mermaid for 1931 is Helene Madison, of the Washington A. C. of Seattle, who makes a hobby of setting new marks. Frank Wykoff, of California, is undisputed sprint king of the world, his record of .09 2-5 for the 100-yard dash marking him as the fastest runner in the history of the world. Football's outstanding hero of the year is generally conceded to be Marchmont Schwartz, of Notre Dame, and baseball produces as its shining light "Lefty" Grove, of the Philadelphia Athletics. The undisputed champion of four-legged athletes is Twenty Grand, who won eight of his ten races during the season, among them the Kentucky Derby, bringing in $218,545 in prize money. The boxing ring magnum cum laude goes to Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, who improves with every battle in defense of his title. The Navy crew gets the honors in the rowing world by virtue of its brilliant victory in the intercollegiate championship at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and the Hotsy-Totsy gets the laurels for power boats by its conquest in the Gold Cup Regatta at Montauk Point. Taken by and large, 1931 has not done so badly for sport. The performances of our athletes inspire confidence that Uncle Sam will retain the Olympic title at Los Angeles next Summer.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Active Stocks Push To Higher Price Levels

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Though encountering heavy profit taking and speculative selling in the wake of yesterday's spectacular advance, many of the active stocks pushed forward in the week-end market to the best price levels on the move.

The industrials were held back at the start by scattered selling by the professionals. The same was true of the rails, which made only a slight effort to respond to the general impression that the negotiations for wage reductions would terminate successfully for all concerned. In the second hour the rails were again in the lead, with new gains of 1 to 2½ points in a number of the favorites.

Sentiment in the financial district was improved by the good gains in retail trade as reported by the mercantile agencies; the reassuring statements by bankers at Washington and the adoption of the moratorium resolution by the House. Excellent progress in recovering lost ground was also made by a number of railroad bonds which have been under severe pressure of late.

United States Steel carried its new rally to 43, up 7 points from yesterday's low and 1¼ from Friday's close. A good part of this new gain was wiped out by profit taking in the final period. Standard Oil of New Jersey was again under pressure and dropped off a point to 82½. Atchison's 2½-point rise to 90½ was a feature of tne rails, though New York Central was in good call around 33, up 1½.

The Public Utility stocks and the specialties were in good demand at slightly higher prices, but the pace set by a number of the leaders in yesterday's closing spurt could not be maintained against the juggling for profits by the professional and other side traders. Stocks like Auburn and American Telephone sagged at the close and finished the session at lower levels, while a long list of the moderately-priced industrials were able to show at least fractional gains.

Taking the short session as a whole, most of the active stocks gave a good account of themselves. Compared with the low prices of the week, sweeping gains have been recorded, not only in high-priced stocks, but also in New York bank stocks and speculative convertible bonds.

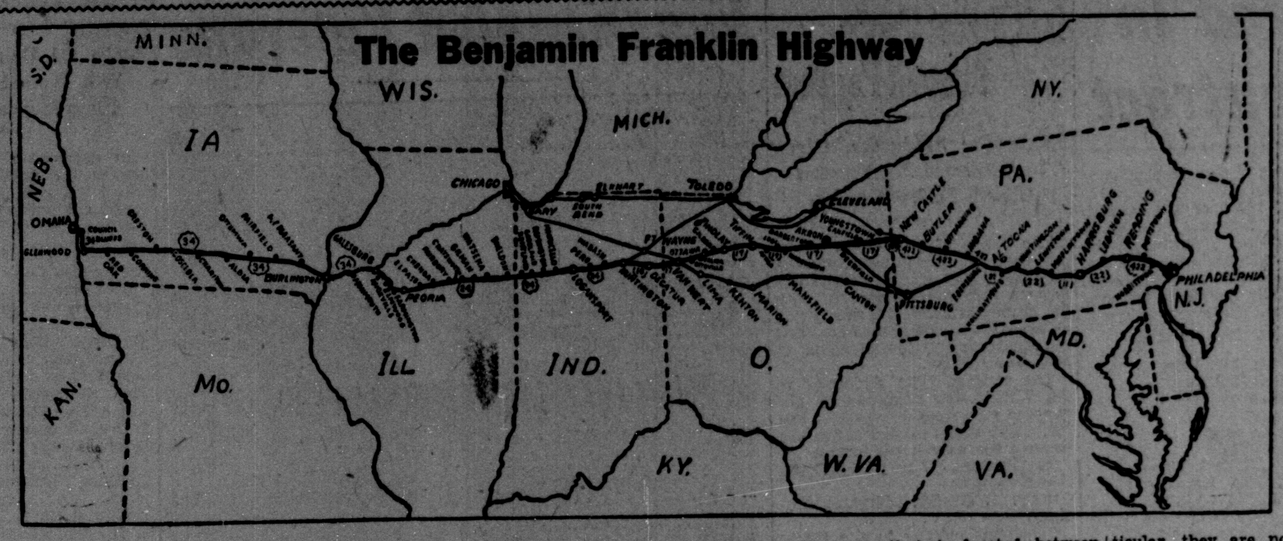
New Direct Highway Through New Castle



One of the numerous cross country highways that is being developed and on which New Castle is prominently located is The Benjamin Franklin Highway extending from Omaha, Nebraska to Philadelphia, Pa., almost directly east and west across the country.

According to John H. Williamson of Findlay, O., who is really father of the move to have this highway and who is constantly on the move here and there along it to get things moving, the route has a length of 1252 miles.

It is concrete from Omaha to Huntington, Indiana and from the latter place to the Pennsylvania state line it is macadam, brick and concrete. This stretch of the highway is in excellent condition.

The only stretch of the highway that is not improved, is located, right in Lawrence county and Mr. Williamson was here the other day conferring with B. N. Hanlon, of the Motor Club, H. W. Lightner, head of the local division of the Pennsylvania Highway department, the Chamber of Commerce representatives and others relative to the improvement of that small piece of roadway, that is located between the state line and Edenburg, and which is in condition because of having received the secondary road treatment provided by the state.

Mr. Williamson is spending much time in the effort to get this road across in a big way, because at the present time, while many of the motorists use a major part of the route, yet on coming east in particular, they are now turning off it onto another route at Fort Wayne, Indiana, from which point they go direct to Pittsburgh on a route eliminating New Castle. It is thought that if the one little stretch of road could be improved, that it would mean much in the way of getting much of the traffic now diverted to the other route, to use the Benjamin Franklin Highway.

A good way to preserve flowers for use when not in season is to pick them just before they are in full bloom, and dip the ends of the stems in melted sealing wax. When the flowers are required cut off the waxed ends and place in a vessel containing warm water, to which a teaspoonful of salt has been added, then leave in a dark place for an hour or so, after which the blooms will appear as though freshly picked.

Culbertson-Lightner Hold 7,915 Lead In Battle Of Contract

Number Of Aces Held By Respective Sides Totals 744 Each

Culbertson-Lightner Hold 16 More Kings Than Their Opponents

(Following is the description by Josephine Culbertson, wife of Ely Culbertson, and with him originator of the approach-forcing contract bridge system of the ninth night's play in the Culbertson-Lenz tournament now under way here.)

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON
World's Greatest Woman Bridge Player
Written Especially For International News Service
Copyright, 1931, By International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—When the ninth rubber of the ninth session, and the sixty-third rubber of the match between my husband and Sidney S. Lenz, to test the respective merits of the approach-forcing system of contract bidding in contrast with the official system, ended last night, the number of aces held by the respective sides was all even at 744 each.

Ely and his partner, Mr. Lightner, had held 16 more kings than had Mr. Lenz and Mr. Oswald Jacoby, his partner. However, we were 7,915 points ahead in the score and had won 34 rubbers as against 29 rubbers by our opponents.

Aces Helpful.

While aces and kings are not necessarily decisive measuring sticks of the value of the cards held, all other things being equal, they do paint a reasonably accurate picture of the strength of the hand. This being true, a lead of nearly 8,000 points would indicate that the approach-forcing system of bidding is proving its case.

The third hand of the sixtieth rubber of the match was a beautiful example of approach bidding, even though the final declaration was a sacrifice bid, in order to prevent an adverse game. It so splendidly illustrates the system that I give it below:

East—Dealer. East-West 60.

North, Mr. Lenz
S—J 10 9 7 6
H—A 10
D—K 4
C—A K 10 7

West, Mr. Culbertson	East, Mr. Lightner
S—K Q 5 4 3	S—A 8 2
H—K J 7 4	H—Q 8 6 5
D—A Q J 4	D—10 8 3
C—None	C—8 6 2

South, Mr. Jacoby
S—None
H—9 3 2
D—9 6 5 2
C—Q J 9 5 4 3

The bidding:—

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 Spade	Pass
1 N. T.	2 Clubs	2 Hearts	3 Clubs
3 Hearts	4 Clubs	4 Hearts	5 Clubs
Pass	Pass	5 Dia.	Double
5 Hearts	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding between the east and west partners so accurately portrayed the hands that, coupled with the information disclosed by the adverse bidding, it was apparent to my husband, who held what appeared to be a very strong hand, that game in clubs could not be prevented and that a sacrifice bid was essential. The paltry set of 2 tricks doubled was richly compensated later when the rubber was won.

A hand which gave Mr. Jacoby an opportunity for a brilliant bid was Deal No. 370, the second hand of the last rubber of the night. The hand and bidding:—

Mr. Lenz
S—A K 4
H—Q 9 8 7 3
D—3
C—9 6 4 3

Mr. Culbertson	Mr. Lightner
S—J 10 6 2	S—Q 9 8 5 3
H—A	H—2
D—K Q 10 7 4	D—A J 5 2
C—Q 8 7	C—K 10 2

Mr. Jacoby
S—7
H—K J 10 6 5 4
D—9 8 6
C—A J 5

The bidding:—

South	West	North	East
		Pass	Pass
Pass	1 Dia.	Double	Redouble
4 Hearts	Pass	Pass	4 Spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Mr. Lenz's take-out double was based on minimum strength, as will be seen by looking at the cards, but was dictated by the condition of the score. Mr. Lightner's redouble was a brilliant declaration and Mr. Jacoby's bid of 4 hearts was just another evidence of his marvelous ability to judge hand values. When Ted countered with his 4-spade sacrifice bid, the bidding of this hand had certainly furnished its share of the unusual.

ELK HERDS COME DOWN TO GET DOLE

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Dec. 19. More than 3,000 elk recently made their annual migration from the high mountains to the Jackson Hole Country where the state government gives them their dole in the form of hay and cotton seed cake during the winter months.

"The mighty elk is the most helpless of all wild game in the procuring of winter forage," Fred Lovejoy, pioneer westerner explains. "Civilization drove them into the upper hills. Before the coming of the white man, the elk had his own way and spent the hard winters down in the basins where feed was plentiful and easy to get. But times have changed all that."

WOMAN NIMROD BAGS TEXAS DEER

KERVILLE, Tex., Dec. 19.—Mrs. A. E. Wood, wife of former State Senator, is the heroine of a deer story with 27 points to it.

Members of the Wood hunting party did not know that even South Texas deer dropped that big until Mrs. Wood dropped the big buck, just 45 minutes after starting from Kerville.

As though that wasn't enough, Mrs. Wood bagged a 24-pound wild turkey in the afternoon.

Community Tree Of East Side Is Now Permanent One

No Need To Take Collection For Tree This Year; Residents Proud Of Their Tree

The East Side community tree is again gracing the little park at the intersection of East Washington St. and Butler avenue, this being the 8th consecutive year it has stood there. It was, except for the park tree, the first community Christmas tree New Castle has ever had.

Last spring Miss Rosena McGurk went before city council and asked that a living tree be planted at that corner. Due to the efforts of Councilman L. G. Genkinger the beautiful tree was planted.

Friday some of the neighbors, William Page, William Forrest, William Rice, John Metcalf decorated it and it presents a really pretty picture all decked out in Christmas adornments. Trimmings for the tree were those kept from previous years. The Atlantic Refining Company donated 25 bulbs to replace those burnt out last year. The Pennsylvania Power company furnishes free of charge the electricity. Therefore it was not necessary to take up a collection among the East Side residents this year.

The Epworth M. E. church choir has promised to sing some carols under the tree sometime soon.

Wilkinsburg Man Sends $10 Check To Mary Clowes

Just A Matter Of $9,990 Difference Of What Mary Had Asked For

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec 19—The check for $10,000 which Mary C. Clowes, New Eagle (Pa.) waitress, received according to published reports, from a Wilkinsburg admirer, turned out yesterday to be only a $10 check—a little difference of $9,990.

Miss Clowes received the check among the plenteous correspondence that followered her offer of several weeks ago to marry any white man for $10,000 to relieve the poverty and illness for her aged parents.

The check she said was a "Christmas present." She doesn't yet know whether or not it's good and she isn't making any predictions. A previous $10,000 check from a Buffalo suiter bounced back with a 'no account" sign on it.
